

streets behind the church

late,
after rain

and the dancehall when everyone left

(soon they will open the lake again)

some boy ran out of the avenue liquor store and disappeared in the dark strange,

like spring

every bright flooded leaf.